BIENVENIDOS

Welcome to Papasote - restaurant y Cafe Mexicano in the historical west train station Kaiserslautern.

Throughout the last few years the mexican cuisine has become more and more popular and well-known in Germany. But what actually defines the ambience of the mexican delicacies? For one, the casual atmosphere is surely deciding.

For mexicans eating is not just the intake of food. A meal is about a friendly get-together, gormandizing, enjoying, drinking, celebrating, being comfortable, chatting cheerfully with each other, forgetting the seriousness of everyday life, unwinding and relaxing.

We conciliate this flaire stronger than most others do. The other aspect of the mexican cuisines increasing popularity is thanks to its heritage from two completely different cultural circles, the indian and the spanish.

The preparation techniques in the mexican cuisine, that have grown during the last centuries and the different food supplies of both cultures have grown together to a union of harmony. The rich variety of local vegetables an fruit, for example chiles, tomatoes, potatoes, beans and corn complement brilliantly the local foods in europe like beef, cheese and wheat.

The varied use of fresh vegetables and salads underlines the modern character of most mexican meals. We, here at Papasote, emphasize our already very good wholesomeness of our mexiacn meals by only using fresh and easily digestible products. The wide range of our choice of products is great for meatlovers as well as seafood worshippers and not to forget are our meatless meals for the vegetarian gums.
